

Annual Performance Review Framework

Version 2.1

Owner: Sarah Chen

Department: Human Resources

Internal document. Readable by all employees.

§1.1 — Purpose

This framework describes how performance is assessed at Acme Corporation, the cadence of formal reviews, and the responsibilities of employees, managers, and Human Resources within the cycle.

§1.2 — Review Cadence

The performance review cycle consists of two formal evaluation periods: mid-year (June-July) and end-of-year (November-December). Both reviews are mandatory.

Each review requires a written self-assessment from the employee and a written assessment from the reporting manager. Reviews not completed within the published window are escalated to the department head.

§2.1 — Rating Scale

Performance is recorded on a five-point scale ranging from 'Below Expectations' to 'Outstanding'. Ratings are calibrated across each department before being released to employees, to reduce variation between individual managers.
